Independent Study Places EDUCATA at the Top of Online Education Providers for Physical Therapists

CALABASAS, Calif. October 17, 2011 — A new survey of thousands of physical therapists conducted by leading trade publication Physical Therapy Products reveals that PTs think of EDUCATA as the top online education provider outside the American Physical Therapy Association (APTA).

“We are thrilled to have achieved this level of recognition in the Rehab community,” says Marilyn M. Pink PT, Ph.D., EDUCATA President and CEO. “We listened to our peers and delivered what was wanted: the best content, on the best interactive platform, at the best price. The survey results validate this approach which will serve EDUCATA well as it expands into other healthcare disciplines.”

The survey, which is being published in the September/October issue of the magazine, shows that over half of those polled use online learning for continuing education – either exclusively or, more commonly, as a complement to in-person seminars.

With a sputtering economy and employers looking to reduce costs while offering continuing education perks, online learning has become a practical and attractive alternative for rounding up CE requirements.

EDUCATA has addressed this need by offering both short and long courses and by focusing on providing relevant materials in an engaging platform that includes video, audio, testing, certification and access. This rich
